Juniors selected Jo Stanford and Bob Callaway from among the ranks for the positions of Junior Class Favorites. Other juniors vying for this title were Amber Babaa, Sharon Hibner, Nora Mullarkey, Delia Pace, Buddy Maxfield, Kevin McGinnis, Brooks Purnell, and Teddy Stone.

LEFT: Jo Stanford and Bob Callaway accept the coveted roles of Favorites for the Class of '74. BELOW: Carole Johnson and Jay Frydenlund show evidence of the good times which can be had at Favorites Ball.

Gaining their first experience in selecting favorites, the sophomores nominated Lee Heister, Judy Kettenburg, Diana Lloyd, Kim Williams, Marty Bishop, David Payne, Eddie Roberts, and Kevin Teter, and chose Kim Hester and Brad Wilson.

Key Club whips faculty, 32-24

Outscoring the Faculty 32-24, the Key Club won the annual Key Club-Faculty basketball game for the first time in the club's history. Coached by Steve Short and Craig Sorrels, the Key Clubbers jumped to an early lead, which they held throughout the game. Led by Coach Jerry Wade, the Faculty members were unsuccessful in their efforts to convert shots into points. The assembly provided a pleasant break from the routine schedule and gave a large boost to the Key Club treasury.

'Superwomen' take Olympic gold

As students and teachers alike looked on, cheering, laughing, and applauding as they saw fit, the 1973 American Field Service Girls' Olympics rolled, ran, and wrapped its way through an hour of unequalled amusement. Events ranging from a sleeping bag relay to an egg-smashing contest gave the crowd a chance to back the AFS program, while they watched the AFS girls poke fun at the international Olympics. Even though the sophomore nominee, Jeff Young, was chosen as Sweetheart, the junior "Superwomen" managed to come from behind and win in overall competition.

Show casts visions of 'People'

Combining dances, skits, songs, and a moving speech, the Highlandettes and Cheerleaders presented a look at "People, Different Strokes for Different Folks." With visits to Scotland, Tiptoe, Louisiana, Arabia, France, and Spain, the show reflected the customs of people all over the world. Alvin and the Chipmunks proved to be a smashing success, while on a more serious note, Sherry Turner delivered an award winning speech on the American Indian. The presentation of the entire group ended the 1972-73 Spring Show in high style.

ABOVE: Tangling over the ball, Kim Wozencraft and Mrs. Barbara Herring do a slightly off-balanced dance, while other members of both teams ignore them. BELOW LEFT: With a little teamwork and a lot of nerve, the faculty cheerleaders, Mr. Paul Marlin, Mr. Woody Harry, Mr. Windy Winstead and Mr. Joe Bob Johnson, muster up an awe-inspiring stunt. BELOW RIGHT: In a tense moment of catch-up basketball, Miss Martha Carona tries to sink a free throw.

Experimenting with a new idea in powder puff sports, the Student Council sponsored a wild and wacky take-off from the normal student-faculty basketball game, as the SC Girls took on the Women Faculty. The high spirits affected everything but the scores, as the females frolicked through four quarters of tied balls, travelling, and a lot of falling down. Despite all the Faculty efforts, the SCG's emerged victorious, with a final score of 12-10.

Presentation crowns Y-Teen festivities

As the "Warm Excursion" established background music for an evening of memories, the annual Presentation Ball heralded the efforts of Y-Teens past and present. History played an important role in the affair, as it was honored for establishing such traditions as the father-senior dance, Most Typical Y-Teen and Y-Teen Beau, and presentation of the seniors. After recognition went to Mrs. Mary Marlar, President Lisa Walne, and sponsors Mrs. Martha Cates and Miss Karen Bouteller, the club members and their dates spent an evening of dancing, music, and festivities.

Diverse sounds melt into musical concert

Breaking away from the traditional second period assemblies, the LH Varsity Singers entertained to a capacity gymnasium audience in the first annual Spring Pop Concert. Songs by the popular musicians Carole King, Lennon-McCartney, the Carpenters, and others comprised the vocal portion of the program. Assisted by the Stage Band, the eight singers including accompanist Jeanette Johnson on electric piano, performed musical arrangements which had been rehearsed and revised in their first period class. The Stage Band, led by John Williams and using arrangements by Ken Barker, played three numbers closing the concert. The two musical groups proved themselves profitably entertaining, as they raised enough money through their performance to buy a much needed sound system.

Evaluation confirms LH excellence

As the everyday struggle of meeting established standards descended upon LH teaching methods, men and women from the Southern Association Visiting Evaluation Team reviewed the teachers and their means of transferring knowledge to the students. The purpose of the inquisition was to maintain LH's accreditation with respect to college and junior college entrance standards, and to make any comments or suggestions the committee deemed helpful. Preceded by a self-evaluation study, concerned with all curricular and extra-curricular activities, the final report showed LH to be judged an excellent secondary school.

Competition, sun lure musicians to Corpus

Sun and salt water mixed with strong musical competition drew the Concert Band and Symphony Orchestra to Corpus Christi for the Buccaneer Days Festival, held annually. Besides parades and fireworks expositions, April's gala event included instrumental rivalry for both organizations, as well as time off for good behavior for the members. Rehearsals in Austin and Corpus Christi seemed tedious with daydreams of sun bathing and swimming ever on the mind, but the final awards made them worthwhile. The Band was judged excellent when compared to other state-wide entries, and the Orchestra was again rated as the Outstanding Orchestra at the festival.

Spirit leaders assume positions

Signaling the close of another school year, try-outs and officer elections were held to fill the places left by graduating seniors. Wishes of good luck and promises of an even greater year ushered in the new Student Council officers, Highlandette officers, Cheerleaders, and Bellboys, with a little help from the exes. The 1973-74 season began shaping up early, while the old officers and leaders bowed out to spring and graduation

Interact sponsors concert

In an effort to raise money to benefit the Nicaraguan relief fund and to sponsor children overseas, the Interact Club presented their second annual concert. Providing the music was "Monticello Union," and the LH Stage Band. The junior high auditorium provided a roof for the concert attenders, and the money raised was quickly sent to areas with the most desperate need.

Uncommon costumes publicize senior week

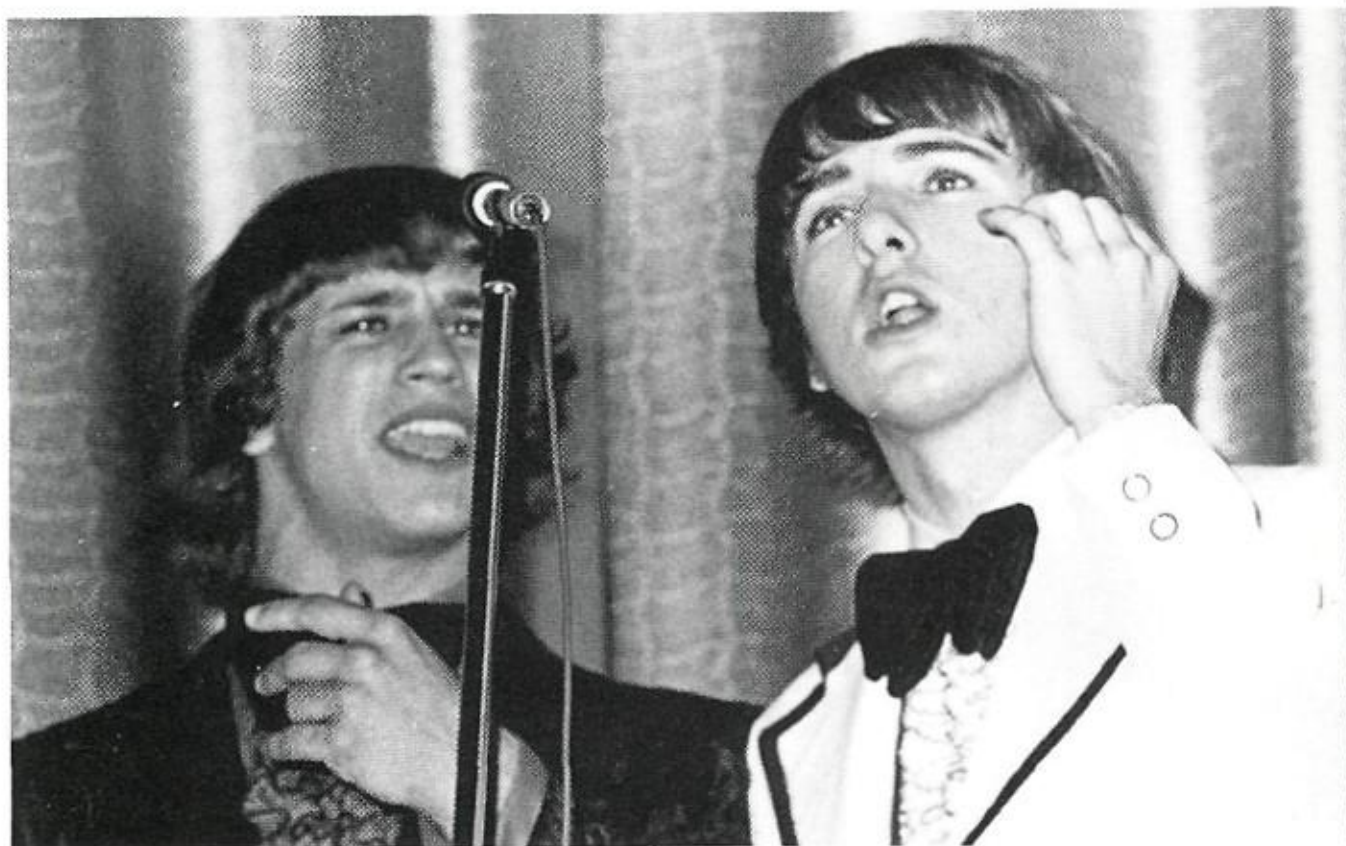

In a final defiance of the conservative air of school, freedom-hungry seniors declared Senior Week a time of unusual wearing apparel. Western Day, Casual Day, and Dress-Up Day complimented each other, and added an appreciated change to the gloom of impending exams. The spontaneous show of cowboy boots, shorts, and ties enlivened classes, and left LH with memories of ragged T-shirts and ten gallon hats.

Seniors display talent, imagination

In their last group effort of their high school career, the Seniors of '73 presented "A Show You Can't Refuse," demonstrating the lunacy achieved in twelve years of grade school. Serious at times and hilarious at others, the program provided light entertainment for a highly receptive audience. Technical difficulties with amps and lights could not dampen the lively atmosphere established by the comedy cast, or the moment of tribute paid to Mr. Robert Harris and Miss Pam Ralston, who directed and advised the production. The show brought in the final funds for the senior prom and all-night party, and left the class with a sense of achievement.

Dallas' Apparel Mart hosted the culmination of Senior Week for the class of '73, as the long-awaited Senior Prom became a reality. Music to move to was provided by the "War Babies," who rocked until after midnight amid the enthusiastic support of those attending. The fountains and lavish surroundings truly made it a night worth remembering, one of the last of many high school memories for the seniors.

ABOVE: While the "War Babies" "get it on," seniors move to the long-awaited strains of prom night. BELOW: Tails, ties, and long skirts come together in the formal atmosphere of the Prom.

Awards assembly commends students

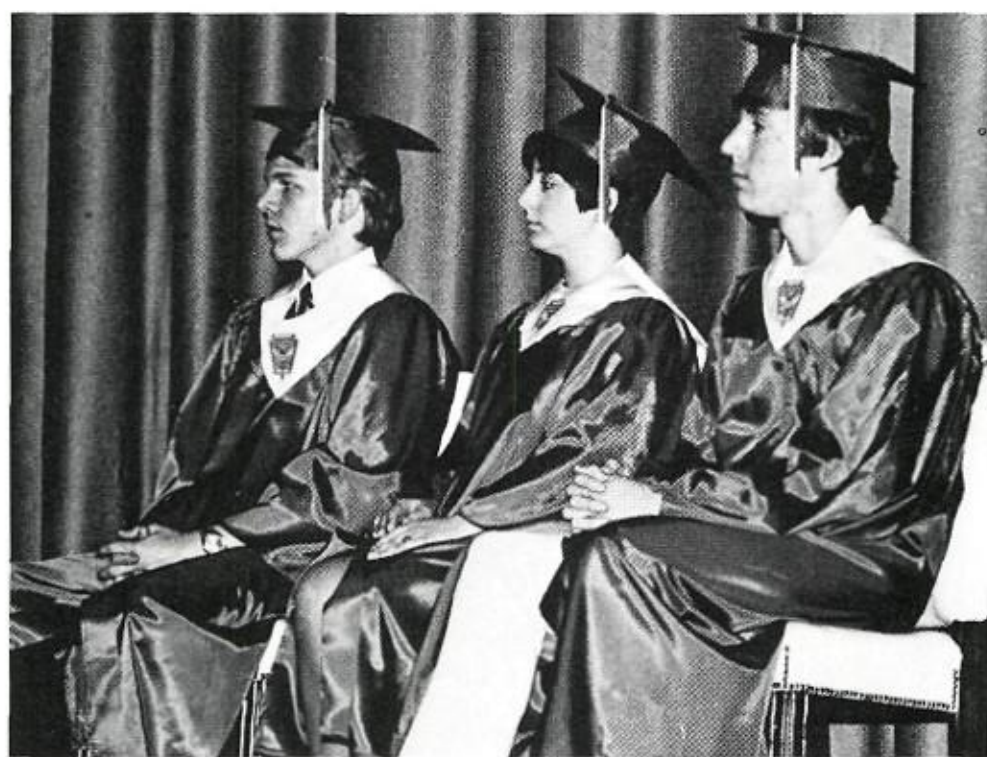

As the school year drew to an end, it was time once again to honor outstanding students, particularly seniors. During the two-hour long Awards Assembly, top students in each department were recognized, and special presentations made by various scholarship organizations. The assembly's purpose also included the announcement of national honors for some students, and giving recognition for those who were military-bound. The program not only rewarded the seniors whose names were mentioned, but also gave a farewell salute to the entire graduating class.

Religious service inspires graduates

As a prelude to the graduation exercise, the Baccalaureate Service served to remind those attending of the faith in their lives. Following the invocation, given by Philip Smith, a choral salute and scripture reading by Claire Howard set the stage for the guest speaker, Dr. Lindle Grigsby. Dr. Grigsby delivered a sermon emphasizing the importance of training, capturing the attention of graduates and parents alike. The ceremony was concluded by the benediction by Mark Johnson and the recessional.

Commencement reveals dignity, pride

"Pomp and Circumstance" filled SMU's Moody Coliseum as the Senior Class of 1973 made their final, formal appearance. Shaded by the veil of tradition, red and white robed graduates sat solemnly listening to the addresses made by Salutarian Geoffrey Williams and Valedictorian Brian Kingsley, while proud parents and friends looked on. The dignity of Commencement was broken occasionally by cap guns and shouts of "I never thought she could make it," and by applause as the class itself singled out those they considered outstanding. The ceremonial recessional, played by the Symphonic Band ended the last salute to the 654 students who made up the Class of '73.

Spree '73 marks senior departure

With a combination of food, music, and recreation the Spree '73 proved to be an exhausting success. Equipped with bowling, golf, and batting machines, the Golden Triangle Bowl in Irving served as the site of the six hour All-Night Party. Prizes donated by the sponsoring parents and merchants supplemented the buffet line to add a special touch to the entertainment.

AFS demonstrates American customs

Jello pies and sleeping bags were not easy obstacles to overcome when the American Field Service held its own version of the Olympics March 1st. The AFS Girls' Olympics, the major fund-raising project, brought for some the "thrill of victory" and for others the "agony of defeat." Valuable student directories were sold as added financial assistance for foreign exchange students, as raising money to sponsor these students was AFS' main objective.

The organization, sponsored by Mrs. Muriel Oliver, celebrated Christmas with a party showing the foreign exchange students America's Christmas customs.

'Les Hereux' designs new decor

Fellowship and spectacular eating extravaganzas made the French Club's cultural activities both enjoyable and unique. Autumn saw the club delighting in an ice cream party, a scavenger hunt and fondue party, and Moliere's play, "School for Wives." A Christmas caroling trip to Doctor's Nursing Home was followed by a skating party at the Ice Palace. Painting sponsor Miss Fran Naples' room departed from the usual range of activities of "Les Heureux." Speech contests in an area-wide French symposium sponsored by Jesuit found many members competing for national prizes. Closing activities of the French Club included participation in the International Dinner and the annual banquet at a French restaurant in May.

Festivities create German flair

Promoting both the German language and culture, the German Club, sponsored by Mr. Wesley Orr, celebrated foreign holidays with festive parties. The organization held a scavenger hunt with clues written in German and remembered Fasching with a masquerade dance. The year was climaxed by a year-end banquet as the officers for the next year were announced. The club was most famed for the bake sales during which German pastries were marketed.

Romans attend banquet

Officers are: Mike Yarnell, Pres.; Brenna Edwards, V. Pres.; Nora Mullarky, Sec.-Treas.; Lisa Dawson, Hist.; and Kathy Polston, Reporter.

"Hail Caesar" could be heard throughout the Latin Club Roman Banquet, held March 31 in the school cafeteria. Creating a learning atmosphere for the club was sponsor Mrs. Gloria Hare. Bake sales, a Christmas children's project and a Cerealia picnic dotted the Club's calendar. Latin students traveled to

Fort Worth in March for the Latin Junior Classical League Convention. Competition was held in poetry, mythology, grammar, and drama interpretation. To end the year with a flare Latin Clubbers joined together, in April, with the other Language Clubs to hold the traditional International Dinner.

Spanish Club merge sports, language

Spanish culture took on an American flare as members of the Spanish Club did everything from bowling to treasure hunting. The members formed two volleyball teams and competed against other clubs, including the Spanish Club of Bryan Adams. San Antonio was the site of the annual Pan American Student Forum convention where members gained more knowledge of Spanish, in hopes of promoting understanding and brotherhood between the people of this hemisphere. With the support of Mrs. Betty Montgomery, the club concluded the year with an awards banquet.

PRO's master volleyball

Mixing pleasure with insight into physics, the Physics Research Order met monthly with their sponsor, Mr. Bryant Wolf. The members advanced their interest and knowledge of physics by taking excursions to laboratories and manufacturing plants, including the planetarium and Texas Instruments. Highlighting the year, the PRO's, clad in lightning-bolted navy shirts, streaked and thundered their way to an inter-club volleyball championship. Concluding the year, each member presented individual research in keeping with the goals of the Order.

Officers are: Brian Kingsley, Pres.; Steve Brown, V. Pres.; Alan Alig, Sec.; and Jim Young, Treas.

Math Club investigates computers

Mathematics, although not the favorite subject of all students, was the mutual interest enjoyed by the members of the Mu Alpha Theta Club. Once a month the club prepared for participation in the national test sponsored by Mu Alpha Theta. Members and sponsor Mrs. Betty Aday delighted in activities not always associated with mathematics, including a progressive dinner, ice skating, and a snack supper. The new year saw Mu Alpha members working at an International Mathematics Convention in downtown Dallas. In February, Mr. David King, mathematics teacher at J. J. Pearce, spoke on computers, allowing members to experiment with machines.

Expressions of joy mingled with the solemn atmosphere of the junior high auditorium as new members were formally accepted into the National Honor Society. A candlelight service after the suspenseful announcement of inductees symbolized the qualities of scholarship, service, leadership, citizenship, and character. The two sponsors Mrs. Rica Saffer and Mrs.

Jane Mitchell, served as advisors, inspiring members to maintain good grades. As a reminder to other students of fair weather to come, NHS members sold red carnations and distributed them on the first day of spring. Spring also found them picnicking to relieve the tension of term papers and final grades.

Assistants maintain efficient library

By contributing time and effort to the various tasks involved with library organization, the library assistants did their share to provide an efficient place for student study and research. In addition, their cataloging and book-binding tasks were a great aid to Mrs. McCollum.

Keeping an excellent filing system, Jeannie Karnowski punches in another book.

FANG records school, national concerns

Editor John Walton and managing editors Jan Hull and Val Runyan discuss layouts for the newspaper.

Displaying journalistic abilities, the Fang staff published a bi-weekly student paper covering a wide range of articles. Editor John Walton co-ordinated the staff under the leadership of Mrs. Cindi Wynne. Working under deadlines and pressures, the staff gained recognition by the Texas High School Press Association in December, receiving an All-Texas rating.

For outstanding quality and being placed in the highest rank of Texas School newspapers in its classification, the Fang received the Distinguished Merit Award from the University Interscholastic League. Throughout the year, the staff received several proficiency citations from the Interscholastic League.

Deadlines prompt Wildcat staff

Presented with the task of recording the memories of another year, members of the 1972-73 Wildcat staff were kept busy creating layouts, writing copy, and identifying pictures. With the guidance of Mrs. Cindi Wynne, the staff worked under the constant pressure of ever-present deadlines. Using their past experience, co-editors Mary Wilson and Alan Bruce directed the staff through various problems. Members found solutions to arising complications in time for the distribution of yearbooks and the signing party in August.

Q & S honors staffs

Established as an honorary international society, to recognize outstanding journalism students, Quill and Scroll brought together newspaper and yearbook staff members in order to acquaint them with the techniques and styles of other high school journalists across the country. Students were chosen by journalism teacher and sponsor, Mrs. Cindi Wynne, after meeting the organization's requirements in the areas of grades, work, and experience. On the lighter side, the writers descended upon Steak and Ale for dinner and had an ice cream party for their initiation ceremonies.

Officers are: Alan Bruce, Pres.; Penny Coney, V. Pres.; Gail Strickland, Sec.; and Sally Harrell, Keeper of the Scroll.

PUB blends humor, memories

Co-editors Laurisa Woodson and Scott Carlson listen as Mrs. Grace Burow helps them prepare the PUB.

Beginning the publication in March, the '73 PUB staff worked frantically to meet their proposed deadline date, spring break. Sponsored by Mrs. Grace Burow and led by co-editors Laurisa Woodson and Scott Carlson, the staff proved successful in publishing a senior magazine that was both humorous and sentimental.

In addition to the familiar categories of "LH totals," the "opposite chart," and "Senior wills" the staff managed to sneak several unique and possibly risqué categories into the PUB. Characteristic only of the versatile and wide-ranged Senior class, the 1973 PUB was one of this school year's greatest successes.

Prose and poetry writing was the forte of the members of the Creative Writing Club, Kappa Rho. Commemorating famous authors, the club profited from the annual Famous Author's Bake Sale in January.

Mrs. Doris Williamson, the club sponsor, aided Kappa Rho members in style and promoted achievements in writing. On Valentine's Day, Dallas journalist and commentator, A. C. Greene, visited the club. He presented literary selections and held a question and answer session with the group in preparation for Kappa Rho's participation in Creative Writing contests. Results from the contests covering eight areas of competition were announced at the Creative Writing Club's Awards Banquet.

Imaginative writers produce Agape

Officers are: Roylyn Martin, Editor; Judy Kostura, Financial Director; Elizabeth Wagner, Copy Editor; and Kathy Polston, Art Editor.

Agape, the Greek word for Christian love was the name of LH's annual literary magazine. Meetings throughout the year provided the members with the time to organize articles written by both students and members of Agape. As advisor, Mrs. Mary Ann Runberg was available to offer necessary publication pointers. The magazine, a reflection of love, peace, and ideals was published and sold in the spring.

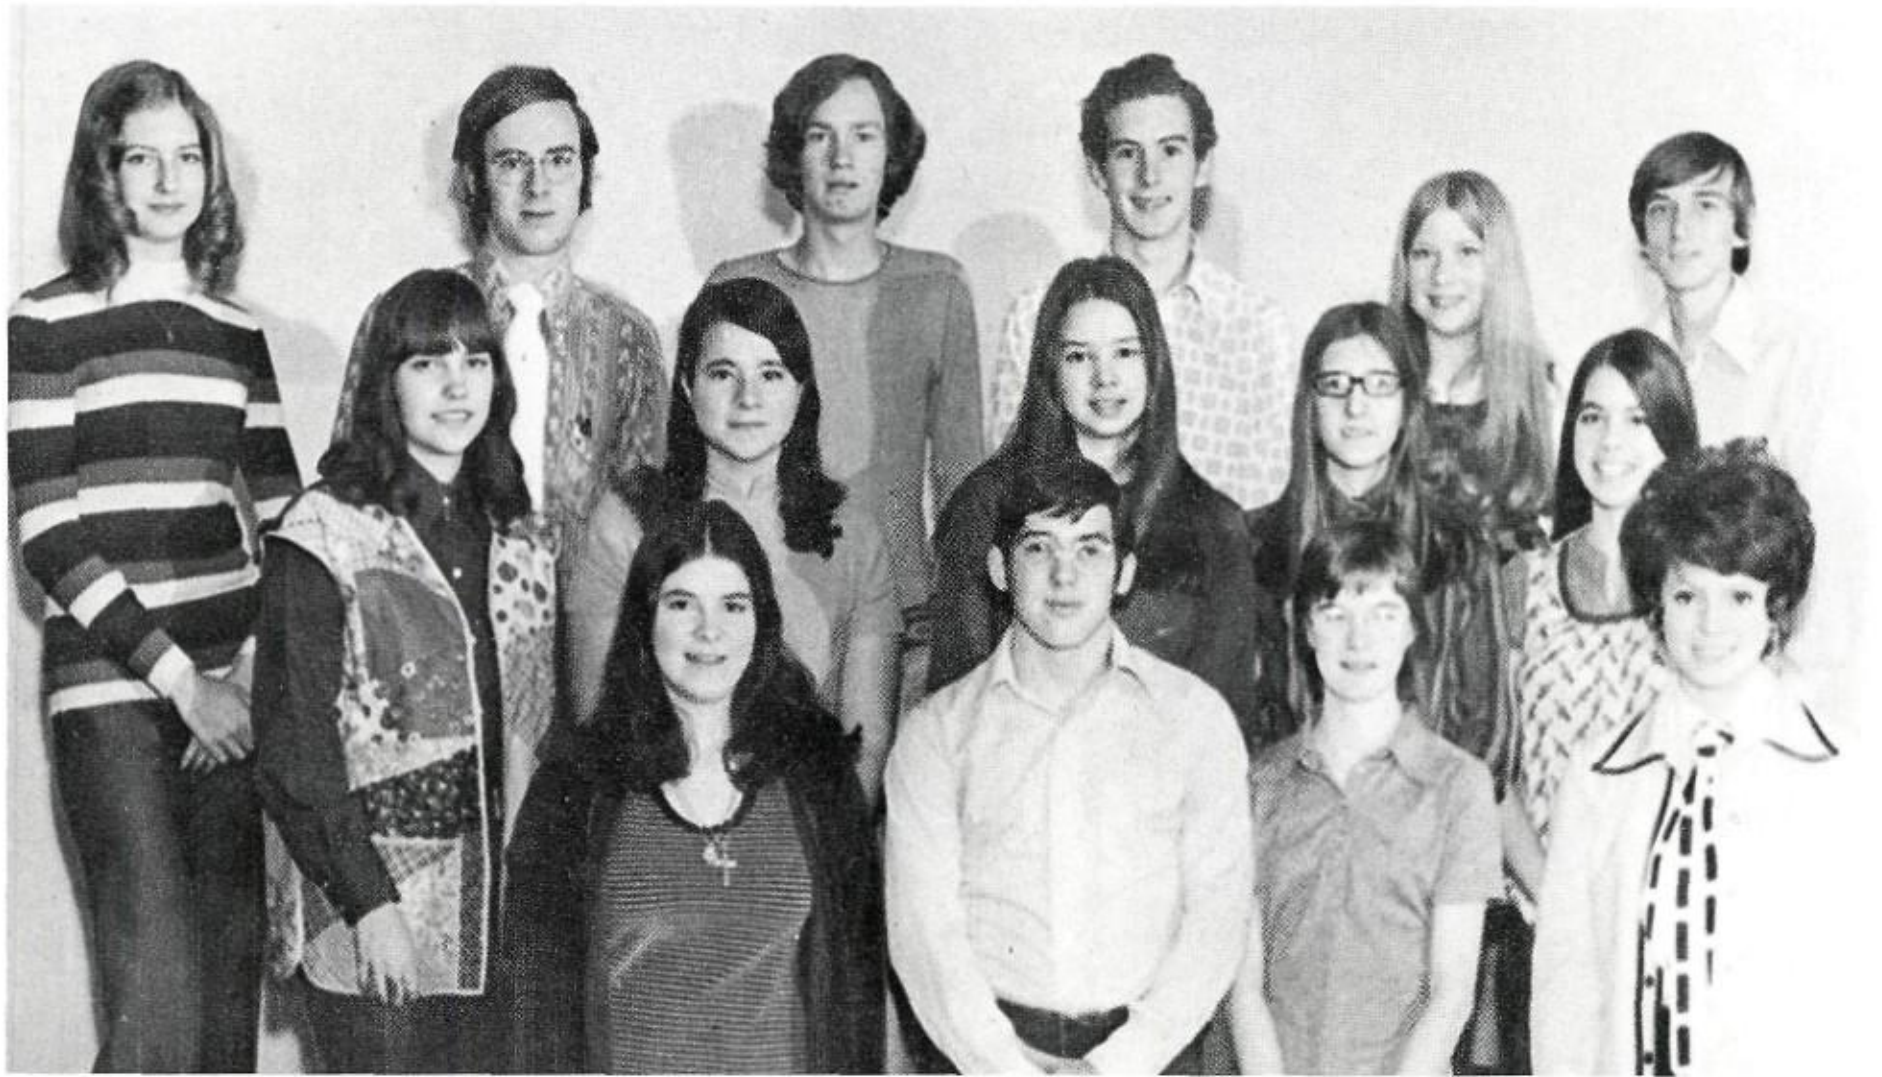

Audiences acclaim talented dramatists

All the world was their stage as dedicated players of the Red Masque Society followed aspirations of the theater. Talent and eagerness were combined as they entertained members of the school and community. The actors and actresses received honor and applause, while other knowledgeable club members handled lighting, props, and advertising. The year's activities consisted of entries in the One-Act Play Contest, a spring drama, and the production of "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown."

Speech Club enacts Milne characters

Representing Lake Highlands at speech tournaments, the Speech Club promoted interest in forensics. Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Patricia Norman, the club produced the play "Winnie the Pooh Searched for the Meaning of Christmas" for kindergarten children and church groups in December. In the spring, members provided a program for senior citizens. The major project was a successful garage sale in February. Honors Night concluded the prosperous year with the initiation of National Forensic League members.

Chess Club utilizes strategy

Castling rooks and kings was a favorite pastime of the members of the Chess Club. Each Thursday evening meetings were held and intense intra-club tournaments were held. Teaching the art of playing chess was accomplished by old members and Mr. Shoemaker, the sponsor. Besides inter-school meets, the club participated in the state Chess tournament, providing fun and entertainment for the members.

Officers are: Bruce Luttrell, Pres.; Marion Bothe, V. Pres.; Richard Bothe, Sec.; and Bruce Proctor, Treas.

Collectors compare, trade treasures

Coins, stamps, matchbooks, and other items of interest were accumulated by the members of the Collectors' Club, sponsored by Mr. Jess Kirkley. Members met monthly to compare rare and unusual gains. Various coin and stamp displays and shows were attended by the members including three one-act plays presented by the Eastfield College Drama Department. The Collectors' Club, through involvement and interests in collections, brought together students with common interests and encouraged expansion of their collections.

Officers are: Elizabeth Wagner, Pres.; Ralph Green, V. Pres.; and Elena Dunlap, Sec.-Treas.

Equestrians enjoy riding

Sharing a hobby that is increasing in popularity, the Equestrian Club pursued the love of horses. In addition to the customary pot luck supper in the fall, there was a dinner at the Copper Cow Restaurant. Mrs. Ellen Fleming sponsored the Equestrians as they planned activities with horses and enjoyed learning more about them.

Officers are: Tracy Smith, Pres.; Sandra Wilson, V. Pres.; Kim Hewett, V. Pres.; Mark Davis, Sec.; and Becky Mitchell, Treas.

Fair involves budding artists

Becoming better acquainted with the arts, the Arabesque Club participated in a wide range of activities. Besides visiting art museums, the organization made toys for blind children. The club, sponsored by Mrs. Jeanette Bolding, enjoyed silk-screening and ceramics. A picnic at Lake Ray Hubbard with boating and games ended a productive year.

Art Fair Objects were displayed in the study hall during Open House.

Drivers improve skills

Constantly appraising each other's driving records, the members of the Rallye Club concentrated on legal speed and accuracy. Mr. Byrant Wolf led the club as they participated in sports rallies in the quest of improved and impressive car handling. Rallye Club members promoted safety and encouraged the art of driving and navigating a vehicle.

Flying Club shares aviation interests

With a common interest in flying and possible aviation careers, the LH Fliers met to share their enthusiasm. Under the supervision of sponsor Mr. Don Whitwell, club activities included field trips to outlying aviation-related industries in addition to money-making endeavors.

Para-Med expands medical interests

Officers are: Sharon Taylor, Pres.; Layne Royal, V. Pres.; and Sue Williams, Sec.-Treas.

The introduction of the Para-Medical Club provided a new look on the different fields of health. The club began the year with Health Career Day at Children's Medical Center which nine members and sponsor Mrs. Janet Martin attended. Through stimulating talks and demonstrations given by various doctors, the students were informed of major issues such as open heart surgery, heart devices, and diseases. Other activities included a visit to a veterinary clinic and a trip to San Antonio to tour Brooks Air Force Base Medical Center. The organization introduced new plans and goals for the club in future years.

HERO students discover new vocations

Providing opportunities unlike those offered by other vocational clubs, Home Economics Related Occupations situated students in domestic jobs. HERO, which cooperated with the Home Economics Cooperation Education, placed members in home associated vocations such as dietician aids, and bridal consultants in addition to clothing and floral assistants. The funds were boosted by a bake sale, and candle and Halloween decoration sales. In May, the organization, sponsored by Miss Beth Porterfield, held a banquet during which certificates were presented to the members and employers.

DECA instills leadership, responsibility

Officers are: Randy Reed, Pres.; Gene Hunt, V. Pres.; Jeanette Oakry, Sec.; Sherri Metcalf, Treas.; Linda Hunter, Reporter; and Kim Wright, Parl.

Relationships between employers and employees were bettered by the LH chapter of the Distributive Education Clubs of America. DECA was formed to develop responsibility in job application and leadership.

The club met monthly with sponsor Mr. Scott Shepherd and Mrs. Maryetta Reid, in which time they arranged an Employer-Employee banquet. Calendar sales brought dollars to the club treasury. Exhibiting leadership qualities, the members participated in State DECA contests.

VICA gains job experience

Officers are: Toni Allred, Pres.; Cindy Earle, V. Pres.; Mary Luther, Sec.; Sally Wolfe, Treas.; Eddie Arledge, Reporter; Rick Sawyer, Parl.; and Tom Hawkins, Sgt.-at-Arms.

Maintaining a job was a common element in the lives of students, and the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America instructed and prepared students for leadership in the world of vocational jobs. Mr. Burle Richardson sponsored the LH chapter of VICA, offering advice and organizing the group. A party for the Buckner Home orphans and a district meet in Waco were among the extra-curricular activities which involved VICA members. Field trips highlighted the year as members gained experience in leadership and responsibility.

Key Club surpasses faculty in basketball

Campaigning to "Insure Tomorrow" kept LH Key Clubbers involved in school and community service. Striving to become the #1 club in Texas and Oklahoma, they filled their calendar with projects such as the March of Dimes Marathon Dance and the Vietnam Memorial Service. In March, the Key Club challenged the faculty in a basketball battle. Provisions were made for a $250 scholarship to a deserving student. Members worked closely with sponsors Mr. Charles Moore and Mr. Ed Zachary to insure the success of the year-end banquet and the district convention.

Co-ed Interact aids mission

Pledged to "service above self," the LH chapter of the International Interact organization challenged tradition by becoming co-ed this year. Sponsor Mr. Neil Patton directed club participation in community and international projects including efforts to earn money for a mission in Mexico. The club further distinguished itself through noteworthy projects around school and by providing help for the handicapped.

New ideas spark Exchangettes

Officers are: Sharon Young, Pres.; Connie Freeman, V. Pres.; Suzanne Osborne, Treas.; Judy Barr, Sec.; and Carolyn Suggs, Senior Rep.

Promoting service towards the community and handicapped, the Junior Exchangettes became involved in a variety of projects. Members sang carols for senior citizens to brighten the Christmas holidays. By increasing funds through an effective car wash, the club was able to participate in an enjoyable hayride. With the assistance of Mrs. Judy Burnett, Exchangettes sponsored a trip to the zoo for Muscular Dystrophy children. An additional Easter Egg hunt for the children fulfilled the satisfaction the club had worked towards and set new plans for future years.

Exchange Club hosts wrestlers

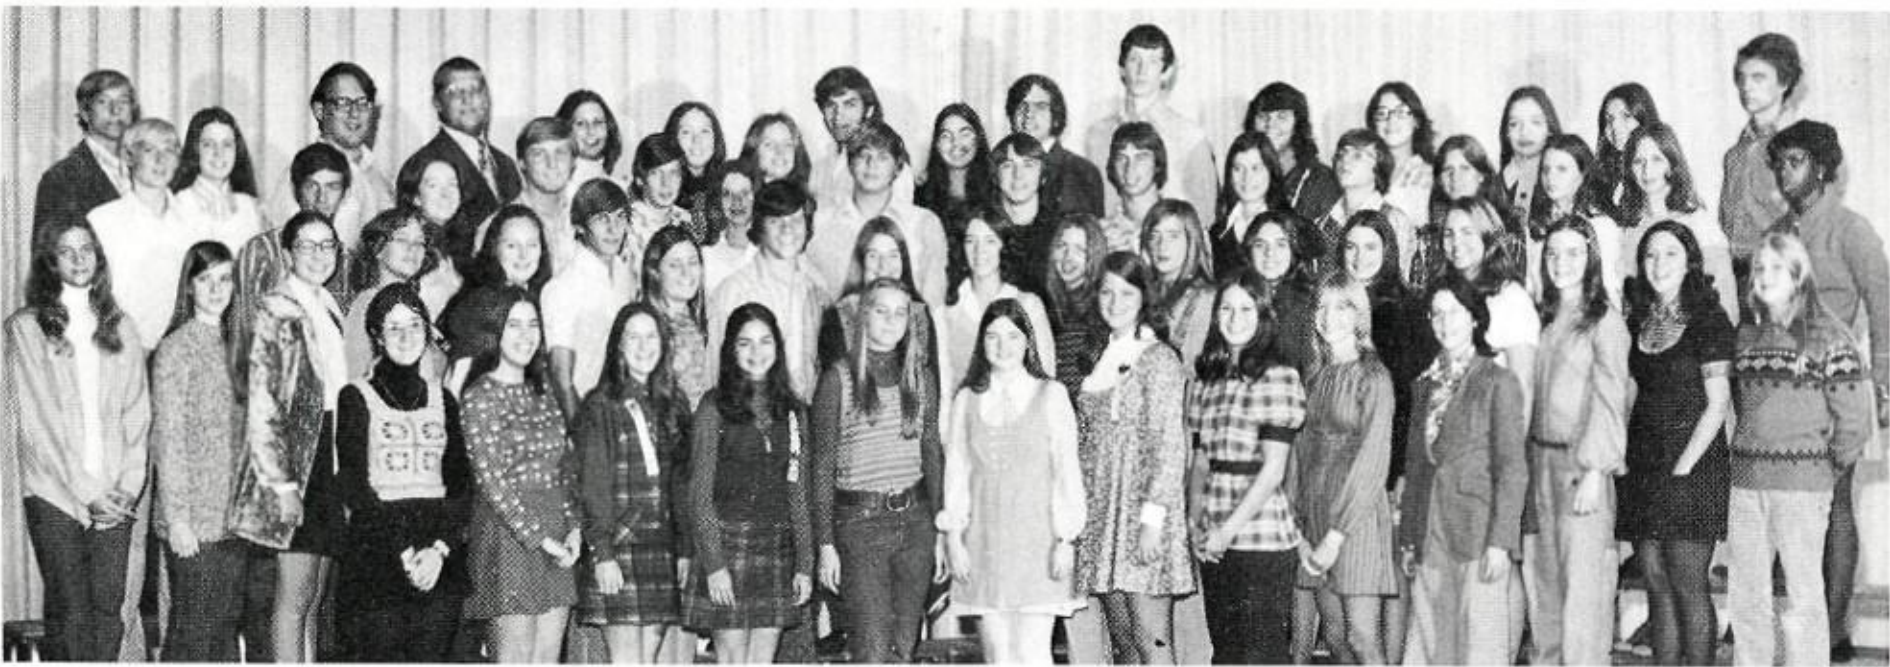

School and community service characterized the Junior Exchange Club sponsored by Mr. Robert Harris. Once a month the club met planning service projects. Projects included sponsoring an LH invitational Wrestling Tournament and redesigning the conference flag for basketball.

Kim Gresham tutors a student at Rhodes Elementary School in one of the many SC activities.

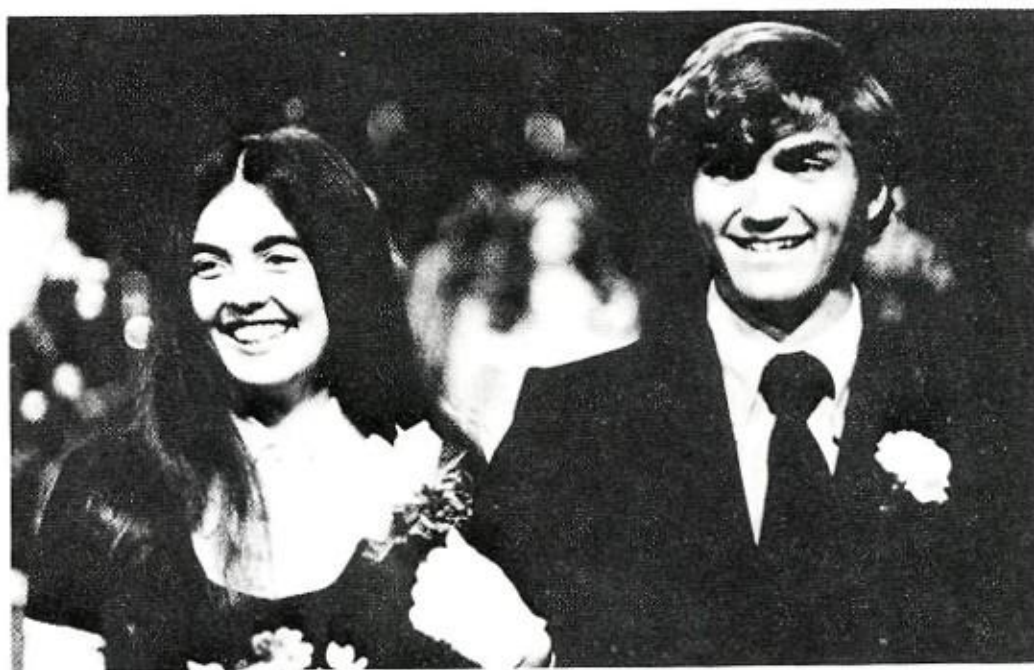

Sponsoring activities which swung from service to social, Student Council again played its part in organizing, expressing, and acting on student needs. In answer to a YMCA quest for help, SC shared the responsibilities of a tutoring project, aimed at reaching children from all-black J.J. Rhodes Elementary School.

Though SC supported many other service functions, such as Thanksgiving baskets and Christmas toys for the Salvation Army, "life on the home front" was not forgotten. The members worked hard to present a concert, plus the annual Homecoming Dance with its theme of "Ten Years After" and Favorites' Ball, '73. Along with the traditions came change, as concerned students spent many meetings revising the ten year old constitution to meet contemporary problems, and better promote student interests and ideas.

Worthwhile causes and able leadership sparked the enthusiasm of the 200 girls belonging to Y-Teens. 'Growth' being the key aim, they presented educational programs at each meeting with such speakers as a marriage counselor, stewardesses, and a model. The active group boasted a schedule of over seven service projects, with teas, a barn dance, and a father-daughter dinner rounded out the year's social events. "Presentation Ball" climaxed the year's endeavors, as they channeled their energy toward a profitable year.

FCA strengthens sportsmanship

Encouraging Christian attitudes in athletics, members of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes combined serious study with fun events. Bible studies were held before and after school, led by Mrs. Ann Forester of the First Baptist Church. Social events enjoyed were a skating party at White Rock Skating Rink and a picnic at Lake Dallas. In a marathon basketball game against Richardson's Young Life, the club was able to combine the Christian spirit with their athletic talents.

Officers are: Nathan Whitener, Pres.; and Dan Koons, Robert Hawthorne, Mark Spradley, and Randy Ford, Asst. Huddle Captains.

FTA members become Valentine minstrels

Poems and musical messages of love were caroled by the members of the Future Teachers of America, sponsored by Mrs. Joyce Pittman. Besides valograms, additional activities included a progressive dinner, parties for the Juliet Fowler Home, and a Halloween party. Participating in a tutoring program, the members gained experience in teaching and helping others. Spotlighting the year was the selection of Mrs. Elizabeth Chandler and Mr. Kelwyn Ellis as recipients of the FTA "Teacher of the Year" award.

Homemakers extend community service

Future Homemakers of America established a year of broader horizons and widening interests. A busy and interesting schedule was created by varying social, service, and educational aspects of the club. Primarily committed to better service of the community, members came up with fresh ideas for beneficial projects, such as taking cookies to policemen on Christmas Eve and constructing toys for underprivileged children. To round out the year's activities, they held an annual dinner for junior high Home Ec students in May.

Singers perform popular music

Performing popular music of our generation, the Varsity Singers, directed by Mr. Paul Marlin, became the third dimension of the LH choral department. Eight talented singers and three instrumentalists entertained the VR audiences and the Miss Richardson Pageant audience in November. Due to these successful appearances, the group was asked to perform for the Northlake Exchange Club in November. They also sang for the Texas Credit Union League. February found the musicians recruiting singers from the local junior high schools, as well as from the high school, into the choral department. The Varsity Singers climaxed the performing season in the April assembly for the school. Ending a fruitful year, they sang in the Senior Show.

Mixed Choir wins Sweepstakes

Pride and success epitomized the feelings of the A Cappella Choir. Forty-three young musicians met daily fourth period for 50-minute musical workouts. Choral director, Mr. Paul Marlin taught the students basic music theory, musical styles, music history, and vocal techniques. These studies not only offered a well-rounded music program, but a lesson in self-discipline.

The choir maintained a full schedule of concerts and contests, beginning in October with the Richardson High School Choir Festival. Music for the All-Region Choir audition was studied in the festival, proving beneficial as 11 were selected for the choir. Preparation for UIL Choir Contest began after the Christmas Concert and continued through March, interrupted only by the Viet Nam Memorial Service performance and Solo and Ensemble Contest, in which 25 first division medals were won. Concentrated efforts to sing the contest music to perfection were rewarded by the coveted Sweepstakes rating at Contest. The April Spring Concert and the May Sacred Concert, with the Baccalaureate performance, concluded a busy and productive season.

Girls' Choir gains prestige

Dedicated to improving musicianship and enjoying the art of singing, the Girls' Choir gained new importance in the Choral Department. Directed by Mr. Paul Marlin, the choir gained the incentive that won them a first division concert rating in the UIL Choir Contest. Efforts to learn sight-reading techniques proved worthwhile as the choir earned a second division rating at Contest. Class time was spent in rehearsal for the Christmas, Spring, and Sacred Concerts.

Section leaders are: Roylyn Martin, 1st Sop.; Lee Ann Enright, 2nd Sop.; Elizabeth Wagner, 1st Alto; and Sidney Morrison, 2nd Alto.

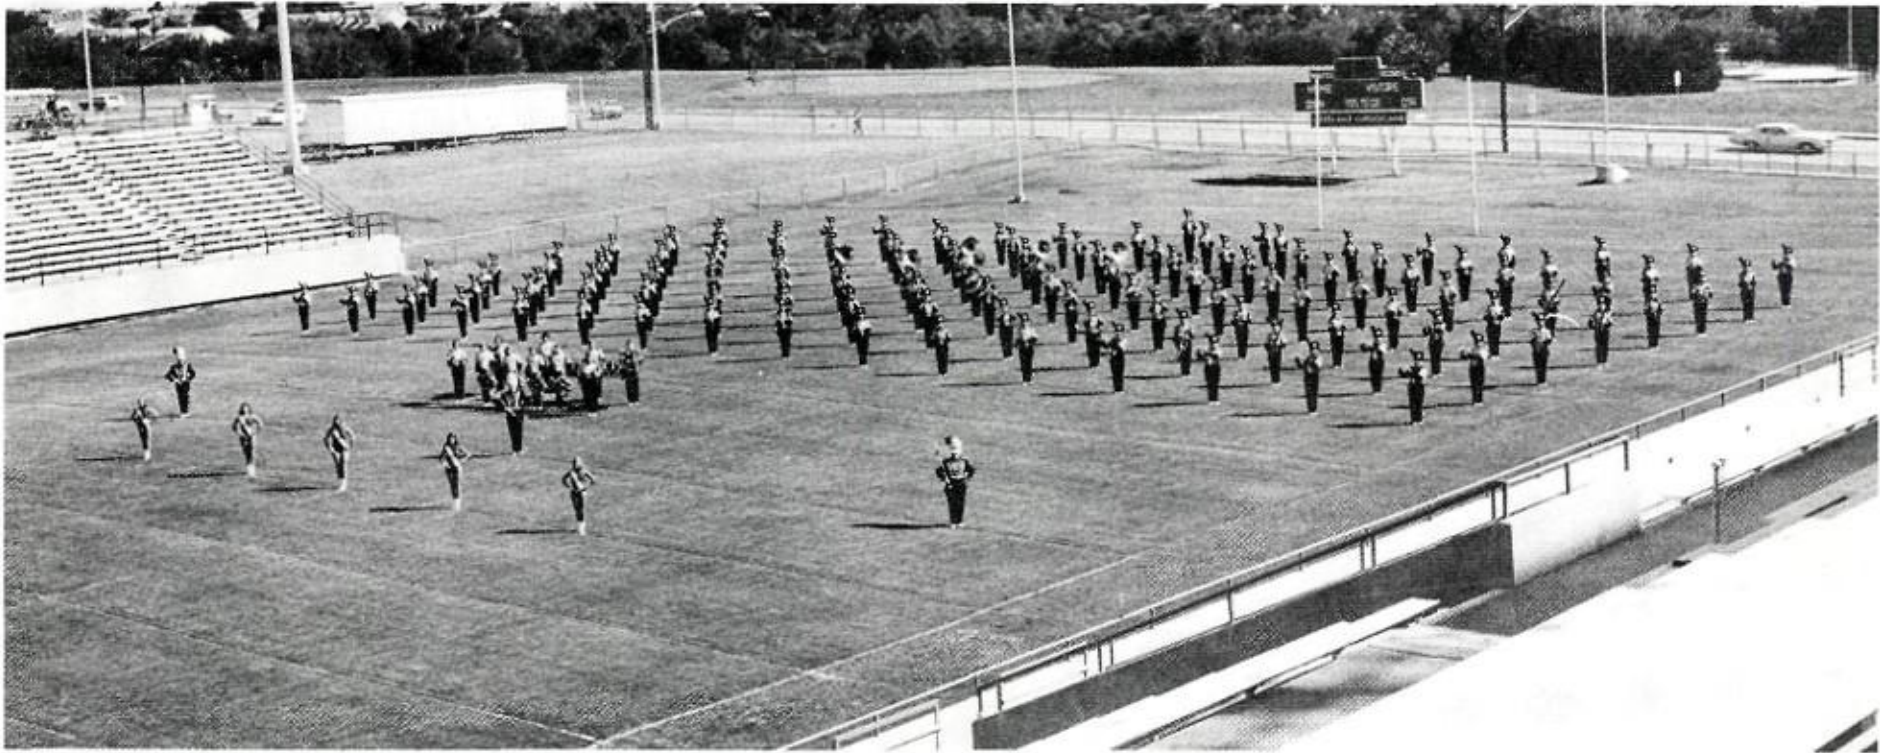

Consort, Madrigals study style

Two distinct styles of music challenged twenty members of the LH choirs. The smaller of two groups, the Consort Singers, consisted of five girls who worked to attain the necessary blend of small ensemble singing, and proved their accomplishments at Canyon Creek Presbyterian Church and the LH Christmas Concert. The Meister-singers was composed of fifteen Mixed Choir students. The singers studied and performed songs in the lilting style of madrigal muse, a goal that few this age achieve. Rewards for their accomplishments came with an invitation from J. J. Pearce to sing for the RISD Council of PTA's Christmas Program, and a performance in San Antonio for the Texas School Food Services Convention.

Band hosts marching contest

Drum Majors are: Don Montgomery, Head Drum Major; Connie Freeman, and Pat Stewart.

Music combined successfully with spirit as the Wildcat Marching Band proved to be an important asset to the school. Crowds applauded the half-time performances, in which they varied songs and marching formations. Dedicated band members attended daily before-school practices to perfect each week's half-time show. In addition to school performances, they played in the October 30 Cowboy Game at the Texas Stadium. Marching Contest was the highlight of the year, and hard work rewarded them as they won top awards.

LH Symphonic named 4A Honor Band

LH bandmen return to the hotel after a strenuous rehearsal for the TMEA Honor Band Concert.

After marching music was put away, along with overlays, spats, and hats, the Symphonic Band turned their interests to the classical style of concert music. Preparing for their performance as Texas 4A Honor Band, they rehearsed music setting new standards for concert performance at the Texas music Educators Association Convention in February. Band director,

Eddie Green drilled the band on the technical aspects of music, and true communication of the art was unmistakable in their polished performances. The band proved its musical prowess as they received top ratings at the University Interscholastic League contest, the Ennis Festival, and the Six Flags band contest.

Concert Band travels to Corpus

With the end of gridiron music, Mr. Gordon Collins began preparing the LH Concert band for the annual Buccaneer Band Festival held April 24 in Corpus Christi. Music ranging from classical to contemporary highlighted the performance with outstanding ratings. Christmas and spring concerts were held in an effort to raise money for the trip. The concert band brought home exceptional ratings from the Ennis Music Festival, Six Flags Band Contest and the University Interscholastic League Contest.

Local television features LH Orchestra

From chaotic rehearsals to polished concerts, the LH Symphony Orchestra moved through a year of Haydn, Mozart, and Matesky. The performing season began with a local television appearance preparing the string members of the orchestra for their Christmas concert. After Paul Ellsworth, music director at Texas Tech spent a day rehearsing with the musicians, the group took their added knowledge to two spring contests, UIL at North Mesquite High School and the Buccaneer Music Festival in Corpus Christi. Directed by Mr. Larry Gebhardt, the orchestra went on to present its spring concert, and ended its year playing at graduation exercises.

Cheerleaders spur pride

School spirit and support of the athletic teams revolved around the eight cheerleaders, chosen in a new combination of four boys and four girls. A strong showing at cheerleader school encouraged them to promote an active year for LH. The group performed at football games and led pep rallies. Basketball games were a part of their schedule, along with the Varsity Revue and Spring Show. Sponsored by Miss Martha Carona, the cheerleaders unified the student body with feelings of spirit and pride.

Spring show marks Highlandette versatility

Through fair and foul weather, the vivacious Highlandettes spent literally hundreds of hours in preparation for a variety of performances. From the coldest November half-time to a hot, brightly lit stage, perfection was stressed, even to the last touch of lipstick. After laying claim to the high-kick first place award at SMU's summer drillteam camp, the girls worked toward one of their most coveted performances: a half-time show for the Cowboys at Texas Stadium. Pom poms gave way to tambourines, canes, flags, umbrellas, and banjos, as the imaginative group put together a spring show to the theme of "Different strokes for different folks." The underlying force, Mrs. Katha Black, worked the group to its limit, resulting in many multi-faceted performances.

Spirit Team promotes enthusiasm

Entertaining LH'ers in diverse styles, the newly-formed Spirit Team boasted a large membership of hard-working, enthusiastic girls. The group, sponsored by Mrs. Donna Guidry, performed hand, pom-pom, and flash card routines for pep rallies and half-time shows, and greeted visiting crowds with such pleasantries as "Hi," "Bye," and "Go." As a fund-raising project, the girls sold football cushions of various designs for those fans who enjoy a little extra comfort. Faithfully supporting the athletic teams, cheerleaders, bands, and drill team, the Spirit Team added new enthusiasm to Lake Highlands.

Bellboys enliven spirit assemblies

Continually audible at all varsity football games and pep rallies was the distinctive Wildcat bell, manned by the Key Club-sponsored Bell Boys. Selected by Mr. Moore on the basis of Key Club service, the "ding-a-lings" for 1972-73 were Craig Sorrels, Scott (Butch) Carlson, Kenny Robison, Steve Short, and Alan Bruce.

Kazoo Club supports forgotten sports

New sounds echoed through the halls as the Kazoo Club made itself a place in school society with all the exuberance of a new club. Pledging to support "forgotten sports," they played lively Kazoo numbers at tennis matches and soccer games. Teachers' birthdays and pep rallies were enlivened by the chorus' humming of Loony Tunes, old camp songs, and patriotic music. Sponsor David Patton helped create enthusiasm over the "different" instrument as it gained acceptance by the student body.

Rivals begin pigskin play

Opening the '72 season against tough W.T. White the Cats were overpowered and suffered a 29-14 setback. The state-ranked Longhorns employed a dazzling running game to stun the inexperienced LH defense with over 200 yards and four long scoring drives. Inexperience was evident, but signs of efficiency could be seen in the season opener and as the year progressed, early flaws would be ironed out.

An awesome ground attack led by powerful fullback, Ted Ubben, overran a stunned Tyler Lee defense as the Cats showed their potential in a 21-12 romp. The win evened the pre-season mark at 1 and 1 after an opening loss to highly touted W. T. White.

A late rally fell short as the Cats made a strong bid for an upset over Highland Park, dropping a hard-fought battle by 23-14.

Following a fumble on the opening kickoff, the Scotties took advantage of the LH miscues by going into halftime with a narrow 9-7 lead.

On the opening drive of the third quarter the Scots jumped out to a nine point lead, seemingly wrapping the game up with a 16-7 advantage going into the final quarter. The Cats' last ditch effort went for nothing and pre-season ended with a disappointing loss.

Awesome ground attack continues drive

Opening district play on a strong note, the Cats' awesome ground machine rolled through Paris in a 28-7 slaughter. Running-backs Ted Ubben and Ray Carrio amassed a total of 317 yards, running around, through, and over the Paris line.

Defense provided two scoring opportunities with defensive back Brad Travis and end Jimmy Young each grabbing an interception. The potent Paris offense was held to only one touchdown and was halted several times after mounting long drives.

Carrio's two scores, paired with touchdowns by Ubben and Maxfield, accounted for the Cats' 28 points. A satisfying victory in Paris marked LH as a power to contend with in District 13 AAAA.

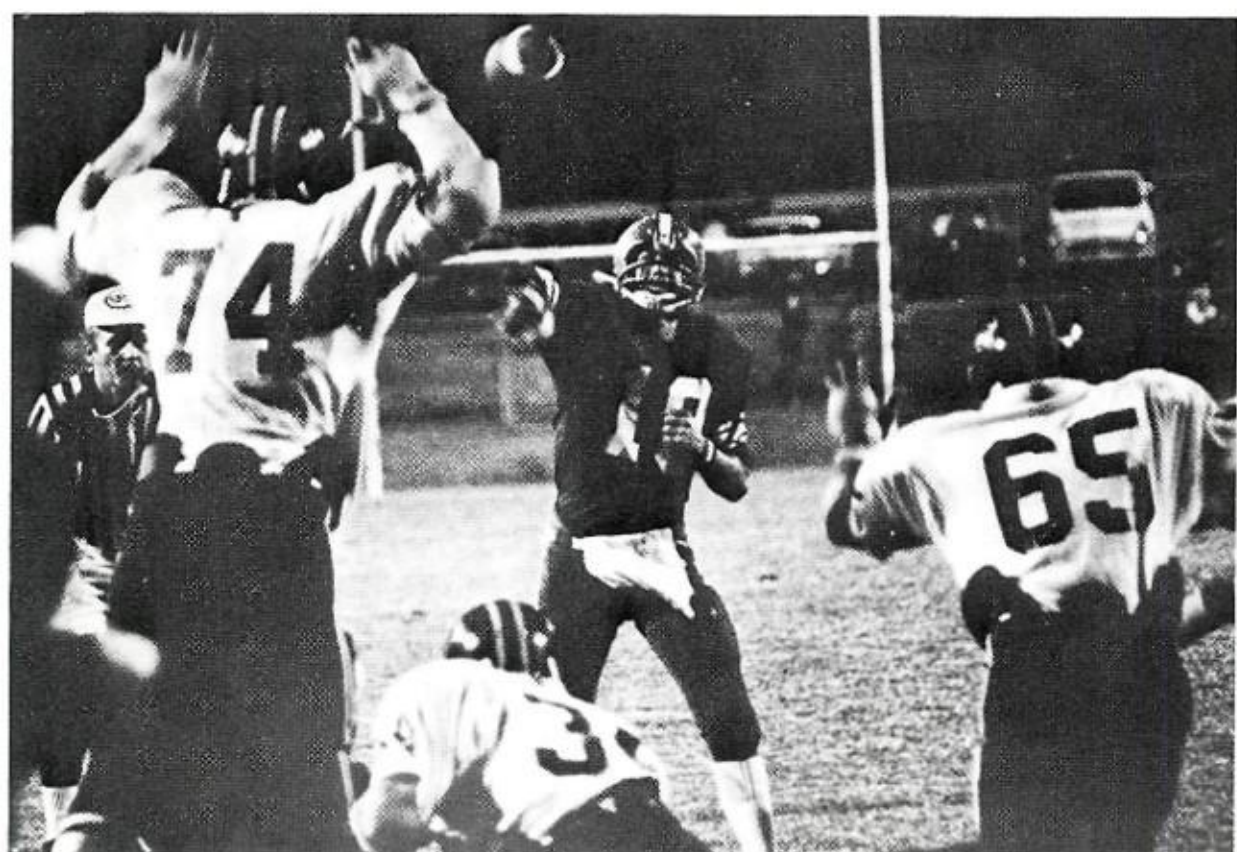

Win or lose, fighting Wildcat Nathan Whitener proudly sings the Alma Mater.

A fourth quarter rally stunned the talented Sherman Bearcats as the LH offense scored a last minute touchdown to pull out a 13-10 victory. The rushing game remained sound but the Sherman defense stiffened deep in its own territory to keep the Cats off the board until the final quarter. With the score 10-0, Maxfield capped a 65-yard drive. A two-point conversion attempt failed, leaving the score at a dismal 10-6. But a 36-yard pass to Charles Murphy salvaged a 98-yard drive and set up a six-yard touchdown pass with 1:23 left in the game. The win gave the Cats a 2-0 district record, a share of the district lead and set the show for a match with the Richardson Eagles.

Mistakes mar clash with Eagles

Three second-half scores resulting from a series of LH blunders gave the Richardson Eagles a 28-10 win and knocked the Cats from a first place berth. A tough Eagle defense took advantage of two turnovers, setting up one score after a fumble recovery and scoring on a 75-yard interception return.

Richardson rallied after going into halftime trailing 10-7. A three-yard plunge by Brooks Purnell and Russ Willis' 31 yard field goal gave the Cats the lead at the midpoint of the contest.

The second half Richardson comeback proved to be too much for the Cats, who dropped into a second place tie with the Eagles and left them facing an undefeated Plano team at Homecoming.

ABOVE: Charles Murphy (42) carries the ball for LH in the victory game over Sherman. BELOW: Jon Hall exemplifies a dejected team after the 28-10 loss to Richardson.

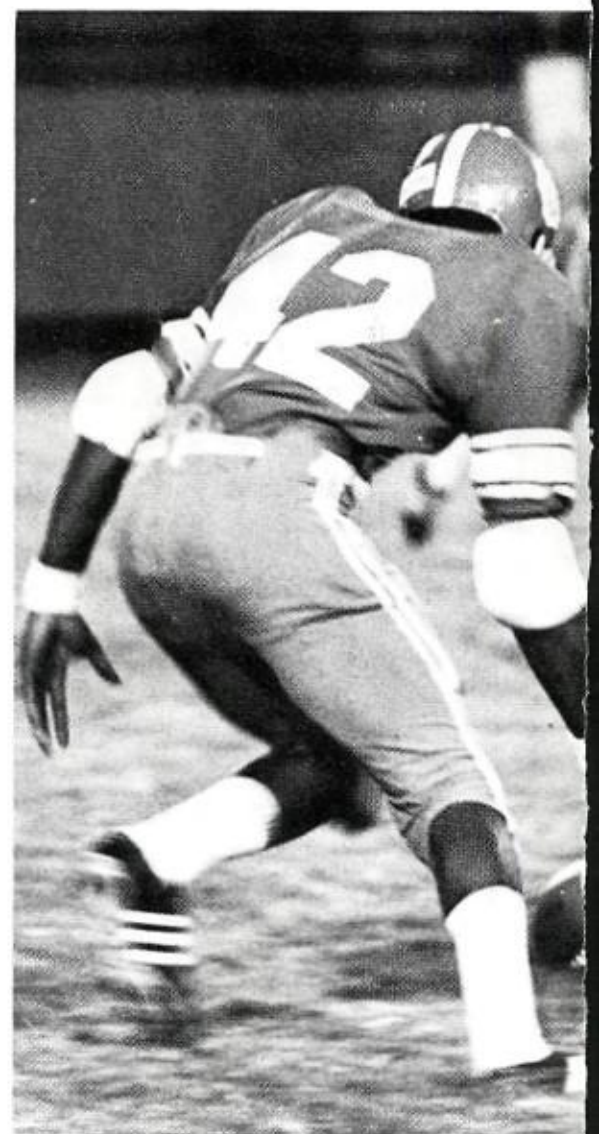

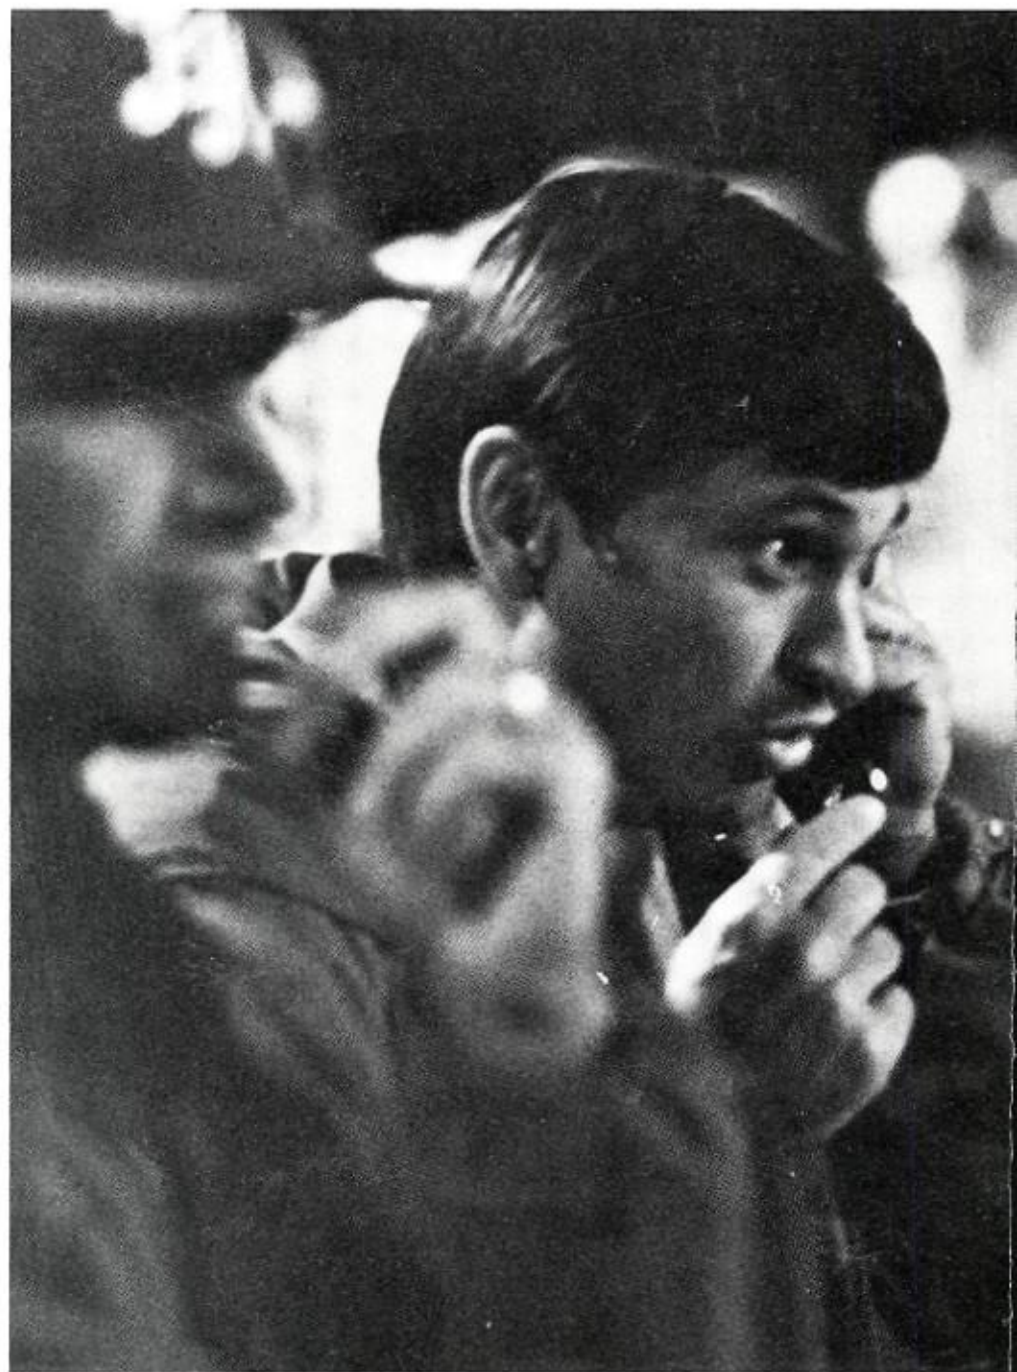

Plano upsets Homecoming

Another second half explosion cost the LH Cats an upset victory, as district newcomer Plano captured a 24-7 win and handed LH its first Homecoming loss in the school's history. Rucker Lewis led an awesome Plano offense that picked up 252 yards on the ground and scored three breakaway touchdowns.

Lewis romped 40 yards on the game's third play to give Plano an early 6-0 lead, but the Cats battled back to take a 7-6 halftime advantage on a short burst by quarterback Maxfield.

Plano, however, displayed a quick-hitting offense and tallied scoring plays of 55 yards on a pinpoint pass by Jeff Brumbaugh and another 39 yard scamper by the Wildcat quarterback.

Plano remained undefeated in district play and retained its position on top of the standings. The Cats dropped to a 2-2 record and third place spot.

Kicker salvages win

With the Cats trailing by a point and only a minute remaining, kicker Russ Willis connected on a 26-yard field goal to salvage a 15-13 win over Denison.

Again fullback Ted Ubben carried the load, gaining 125 yards against a tough Denison line. Maxfield and Carrio scored the two LH TD's on short runs, but the Yellowjackets never broke down and held a commanding 13-12 lead late in the fourth quarter. Taking possession at their own 30 with six minutes remaining, the Cats drove 34 yards in 10 plays, mostly on the running of Ubben. But a fourth down situation on the Denison 16 called for the services of Willis, who booted the winning field goal.

Lions, Mustangs succumb in final contests

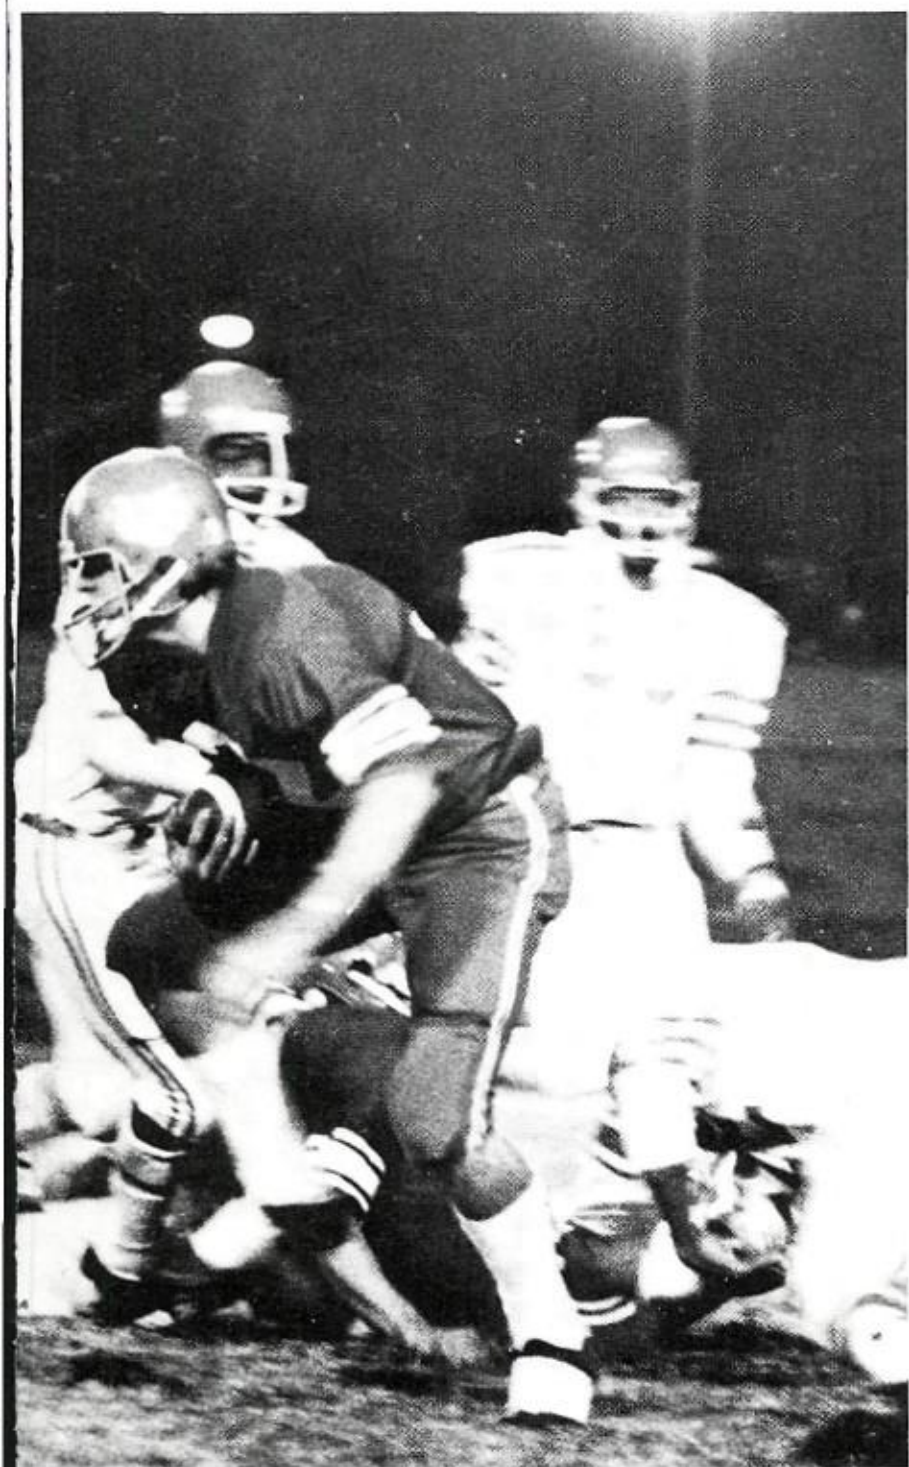

Fighting off a determined Greenville effort, the Cats held on to a 20-18 victory. Only when the final gun sounded was the win assured as the Lions almost tied the game up in the final seconds.

Greenville made a run for it, however, scoring twice to narrow the lead to two points. Attempting to knot the game at 20 apiece, the Lions went for a two point conversion and succeeded with only seconds remaining. The attempt was called back, however, with Greenville being penalized for illegal procedure. The contest ended none too soon and the Cats escaped with another district win and still eyeing a shot at the district title.

Winning its final three games, the Cats made a desperate bid for the district crown and crushed the Pearce Mustangs 30-0 in the season finale. A superlative performance by both units shut out the hapless Ponies and ended a fine season on an impressive note.

The victory left the Cats with a 5-2 district record, good enough for a second place tie in the standings. The team displayed moments of brilliance and instances of heartbreaking disappointment. The '72-'73 squad was good enough, however, to battle to a 6-4 mark and a strong showing against top competition.

B-Team closes in controversial finale

The "Red" B-team fought a difficult schedule to finish with a season record of 4-5. Mid-season losses of key personnel contributed to defeats by Richardson and Denison. However, the team never let down and returned to more impressive showings in later contests. Winding up the season with a tough battle against J. J. Pearce, the LH Red team lost the finale on a controversial last minute touchdown.

Golfers battle weather pressure

Placing high since last season in intra-district and invitational tournaments, the golf team steadily gained the confidence and poise which made it a recognized threat among highly regarded area competition. Coach Ed Zachary expressed optimistic enthusiasm for the district season, having confidence in stalwart performers Bob Neal, David Foster, and Randy Ford. Neal, as last year's district medalist, paced the squad as team captain during the district tourney held at Sherman. Other golfers for the 1972-73 season were: Roy Jackson, Steve Brown, Scott Vath, Steve Kilpatrick, Doug Heruska, Alan Bruce, Steve Haney, Charles Avant, Keith Robinson, and David Hasse.

Staff deserves dedication honor

Renewed enthusiasm and desire for closer teacher-student relationships were displayed by the Lake Highlands faculty and staff during the 1972-1973 school year. Such efforts were channeled into noticeable results by the leadership of Principal A. M. Anderson and Assistant Principals George Green, Kerry Green, Tom Whitman, and Mike Ogg. The cooperation between the administration and the students led to full development of the potential shown by all LH'ers.

As the school grew, so did the wisdom and understanding of all of Lake Highlands' faculty. Singling out one or two teachers to honor as dedicatees became increasingly difficult as the number of faculty members who merited the honor multiplied. For that reason, the yearbook staff chose to dedicate the 1972-1973 WILD-CAT to the entire Lake Highlands' faculty. The complete staff earned the award through their unfailing interest and understanding exhibited for the students both individually and collectively.

Ellis, Chandler chosen 'teachers of the year'

Chosen every year for outstanding patience and wisdom are two teachers who bear the title "Teacher of the Year." These deserving teachers were nominated and selected by the members of Future Teachers of America. This year, chemistry teacher, Mr. Kelwyn Ellis, and algebra teacher, Mrs. Elizabeth Chandler, were presented with the trophies in recognition of their concern for their students and their desire to share knowledge with them.

Variety spices English curriculum

Originated last year, the relatively new English Department format catered to the students' individual interests. An LH'er could study Shakespeare, drama, poetry, short stories, and various other English topics. The program's only requirement was a semester sentence of composition. Mr. Tom Crigger, head of the English department, helped to organize the present system in a sincere effort to create more interest and selection in English.

Artists use creative modes

In an atmosphere stressing creativity and originality, Lake Highlands' art students were granted freedom of expression. Unhampered by rigid styles and rules, classes were encouraged in their work by a variety of projects in numerous modes. Carved linoleum blocks were transformed into unique Christmas cards, and self-portraits were made using only the aid of a mirror. The projects developed the students' individual style, while providing a sense of balance and coordination.

Whether it was a problem of a confused schedule or a desperate need for college advice, the Lake Highlands' counselors stood by with prompt help for the needy students. Problems ranging from personal difficulties to poor grades occupied these interested advisors. The sophomore counselors were generally busy with the sophomores' problems of adjusting to their high school careers, while the juniors went to their counselors with concern for their courses needed for graduation. Senior counselors were especially frantic in their dealings with college reference manuals, SAT and ACT test schedules, college applications, senior activities, scholarships, and graduation problems. All too often taken for granted, the Lake Highlands' counselors were well-deserving of much praise for assisting LH'ers in their day-to-day crises.

Capable leaders run class of '73

Spirit combined with money-making projects made 1973 a financial success. Seniors actively participated in the customary events such as Homecoming and Varsity Revue. New ideas for fund-raising were introduced with the innovation of selling tickets for a Country Dinner Playhouse performance. The spirit typical of the class was evident at the pep rallies. Providing the required leadership for the class of '73 were: Jim Kipcak, President; Ann Ziegler, Vice-President; Laurisa Woodson, Secretary; Kim Wozencraft, Historian; and Chris Sale, Representative.

As high school graduation drew near, seniors were faced with important decisions. Counselors were on hand to answer students' questions and to assist them in planning for college or work. College Night served as a good opportunity for parents and students to speak with representatives of various colleges. After taking ACT, SAT, and achievement tests, many students applied to the college of their choice and waited anxiously for the letter of acceptance.

"Ten Years After" served as the unique theme for the 1972 Homecoming. Looking into the past, two year histories were reviewed each day. Thursday, seniors participated in the first Dress Up Day with the winners being announced at the pep rally on Friday. Following the battle with the Plano Wildcats, seniors grooved to the sounds of "Bacchus" at the Homecoming Dance. The Saturday night performance of the Varsity Revue ended Homecoming week in style.

Serving as master of ceremonies for the Varsity Revue, Ron Brough introduces the evening's entertainment.

Organizations generate enthusiasm

Providing the necessary framework for Lake Highlands' spirit, the Band, Drill Team, and newly formed Spirit Team served as the basis of support for the Wildcat football team. Exhibiting outstanding performances, these groups helped build a fine reputation for Lake Highlands. After hours of practice, the students perfected numerous routines to present to the audiences. As rewards for exceptional achievement, the Band received the title of number one Texas 4A Honor Band, and the Drill Team won several awards at the SMU Drill Team School.

Charlie Brown captivates audience

Recreating scenes from Charles Shultz's comic strip, "Peanuts," the drama department presented a musical version of "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown." Directed by Miss Pam Ralston, the cast was composed of: Doug McAlister (Charlie Brown), Dorothy Farrar (Lucy), Lisa Bolin (Snoopy), Jeff Cagney (Schroeder), Ron Brough (Linus), and Amy Harrell (Sally). The bright setting provided a background for an evening of side-splitting entertainment.

Awards provide incentive

Several honors were awarded to outstanding seniors for character, leadership, and scholastic ability. Thirty-one deserving seniors were elected to the National Honor Society and were formally inducted by the old members. The scholastic sweater awards further proved the capability of the talented students. Selected members of the class of '73 were chosen by the Northlake Exchange Club as "Youth of the Month" for their individual participation and character. Recognizing the efforts of outstanding students, these various awards provided an added incentive for studying.

Tedious hours of practice endurance in all types of weather and the final flashing smiles were the trademarks of the Highlandettes. Their mornings and afternoons were solely devoted to endless practice rehearsals after which white gym suits and tennis shoes were traded each Friday night for stiffly starched red skirts and freshly polished boots. The drill team's high kicks, flag, and umbrella routines dazzled the crowds during half-time. From learning the routines on Monday morning to the final product on Friday night, the Highlandettes performed with award-winning style.

Neither rain nor snow nor gloom of game can stop the sparkling Highlandettes.

Normal timidity was not a major obstacle to the sophomores, as they forged ahead to create an active, spirited year. The over-all goal was total involvement, whether it meant selling boxes of popcorn or banging on a trash can lid at a pep rally. Sophomore financial projects included two bake sales and a neighborhood popcorn sale, as the largest sophomore class in the history of LH settled themselves into their high school career.

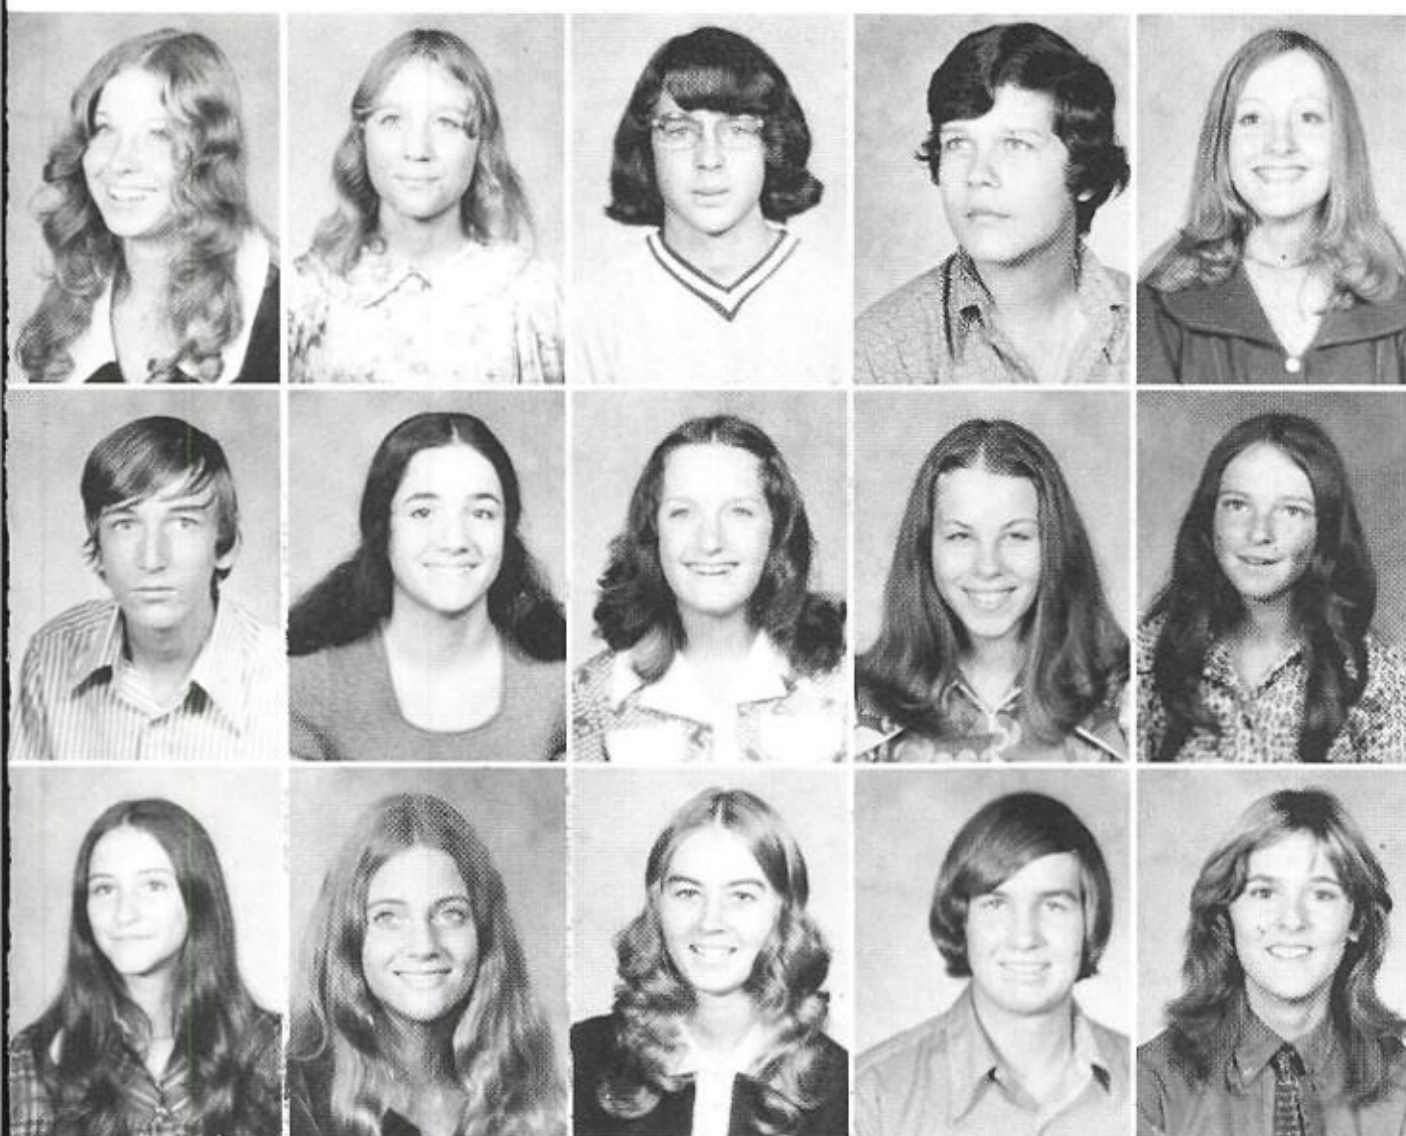

Sophomore nominee and Homecoming Queen Kim Williams and her escort Marty Bishop are presented to an enthusiastic Varsity Review audience.

Practice yields half-time results

With the formula "practice yields results" the Wildcat Marching Band and the high stepping Highlandettes put together some crowd pleasing half-time entertainment. Rehearsals in the cold of the morning and the heat of the afternoon produced everything from frozen fingers to heat exhaustion, as the authoritative command of the whistle shrilled on. Students and teachers not in the band were asked to cooperate by removing their cars from the parking lot in the afternoon, with the firm understanding that if it was not moved by the owner, the band would do so. Tennis shoes, cut-offs, and gym suits were replaced with starched red skirts, plumed hats and white spats, as it was suddenly Friday night and time to perform.

Performing at half-time is Merri Lewis and her French horn.

Among other things, the year boasted three newcomers: the Spirit Team, the Kazoo Club, and a longer version of C-hall. As all new ideas are, these three things were first looked upon with skepticism, since many doubted their success. However, the two organizations quickly became active in extra-curricular functions and proved to be vital assets in school life, while the addition to C-hall slowly grew from a cement foundation to walls, windows and doors. Whether spirit or space-oriented, all three additions answered a demand in student needs.

Financial need expressed itself as the not-so-typical Kazoo Club has a typical bake sale.

This year's favorite pastime once again proved to be hall-walking. From sophomore to senior and novice to pro the hall walkers were out in force. They could be seen at any time, but generally stayed as close to the candy machines and as far as possible from the offices. Undermining the efforts of assistant principals and teachers, these students proved valiantly that with enough practice and a good excuse, one could get away from it all for a while.

Kind visitors like Jan Feltman and Vanessa Johnson keep Mrs. Killough's candy machines from getting lonely.

Juniors' treasury boosted by "Spirit"

Caught between sophomore foolishness and senior sophistication, juniors looked eagerly toward their last year at LH. Preparations included PSAT exams and financial additions to the prom treasury. Contributing to sophomore gains, the class sold "Spirit" all purpose cleaner, which brought in $750. Juniors encountered the usual mid-high school slump, which was most evident during pep rallies and class officer elections. Occasional sparks of enthusiasm prompted the building of a spirit box and decorating the A halls for homecoming, as the juniors licked their second year at LHHS.

An unattended carton of "Spirit" waits to be sold.

Drivers' Ed. promotes safety

From multi-media to simulator, students gradually absorbed the techniques of operating that freedom granting vehicle, the car. Standing in the heat, rain, or cold for five minutes earned students the right to enter the simulator on rickety stairs, after which they were expected to drive a box rigged with tattle-telling lights and synchronized to a film. The next step was out into the street, where a student could spend fifteen minutes a day proving his competency in driving an automobile. All the hassles proved worthwhile though, as the last day came and certificates were awarded.

Instructor Mrs. Myer and student driver Sandy Smith tackle the roads together.

Homecoming 1972 turned out to be Homecoming 1962 as the students followed the theme of "Ten Years After." Festivities were kept alive each morning with announcements which highlighted the years 1962-1972, with reminders in the fields of sports, activities and awards. Underclassmen came through once more as the sophomore nominee, Kim Williams, was chosen Homecoming Queen. The busy days were climaxed by Dress Up Day, which led into Homecoming Day, the game and the dance.

Kim Williams, escorted by Marty Bishop, is presented to the homecoming fans that elected her queen.

Library provides diversion

Contrary to popular belief that libraries are only quiet places of study, the LH library became much more as students found numerous ways to spend study hall in the library. Whispering around a table, reading newspapers, or assisting librarians were all activities that students became involved with during the year.

With nothing better to do, the library turns out to be a place to catch up on the latest gossip.

Group involvement revealed its versatility as students sang, cheered, and connived together. The catalyst was a desire to have fun with friends, and at the same time, to achieve a goal. Some learned how to read music and change it into song. Others put their voices and spirit together to support the school's sports activities. Nearly every student was involved in a group, and it was reflected by the various organizations that developed.

Problems arise as there is never enough music to go around.

Specialized courses offer change

Above and beyond the basic education of reading, writing, and arithmetic, the curriculum carried more specialized courses for those with more diversified interests. After fulfilling the pre-requisites, students could choose from bachelor survival to music history and pre-engineering to arts and crafts.

Unique classroom learning provides an interesting insight to music history students.

The Exchange Club bake sale draws a crowd.

Ingenious projects earn funds

As the faces changed from year to year, one of the goals remained undaunted. Whether for a senior prom, a Christmas party, or a picnic at Flag Pole Hill, every class and organization went through the ritual of money-making. Suprising no one, money, that necessary evil without which LH students would have a hard time operating, was again the most sought after item on the Top Ten chart. Projects and sales items included everything from cleaning fluid to popcorn to calendars, and the ever popular bake sale also managed to reap its rewards. The money-raising projects kept sponsors and students busy and piggy banks empty.

Election fever took hold of LH, grabbing it by the IBM ballot, settling into the minds of future presidents, and stirring up feelings for national, state, and local politics. Students swung into the chaos of campaigns and conventions, with posters, slogans, crepe paper, and balloons transforming classrooms and halls into signposts of political opinion. The promises were made, the votes cast, and the results tallied as election fever reaped its new crop of politicians.

Highlighting a week of historic recollections, a day of nostalgia prevailed as SC sponsored Dress Up Day. While many felt that world communication was being oppressed, within the news media and between nations, LH students continued to employ imagination and creativity to bridge the communications gap separating the salesman and the victim. For the sake of selling an idea, students, teachers, and speakers used enough gimmicks to put any con man to shame, and enough materials to keep a well-stocked department store in the black for years. The approaches were sometimes straight, sometimes humorous, but all were devised to sell an idea.

Lee Roy Jordan enlivens a PTA meeting with quips about the Dallas Cowboys.
